

Social Action Shabbat
April 27, 2007 at 6:15 p.m.

Do Not Let the 'One Voice' of Israelis and Palestinians Go Unheard

(Presented by TAS Social Action Committee)

This is an experience you will want to be part of. Hear representative Israelis and Palestinians give voice to the majority of moderates in Israel and Palestine, who reject militant absolutism and want to promote peace and prosperity for all.

The OneVoice Movement is a grassroots nonpartisan movement of Israelis and Palestinians that to date has over a quarter million signatories on its mandate for a two-state solution in Israel and Palestine. The movement, which has united people across the political and religious spectrum on both sides, has offices in Tel Aviv, Ramallah, and Gaza City. OneVoice activists recently addressed the Israeli foreign minister and the Palestinian president at a plenary session of the World Economic Forum in Davos, Switzerland.

Two youth leaders, Sagi and Dalia, one Israeli and one Palestinian, will join forces to bring their side of the story to Temple Adat Shalom on April 27, 2007. Their message is the message of the majority, their ally is the other, and their enemy is extremism: they are OneVoice.

Since the inception of OneVoice in 2002, this grassroots movement has taken a bold approach to engaging Palestinians and Israelis in greater civic involvement. People on both sides of the political and religious spectrum will stand united as "OneVoice" against violence - serving notice to their leaders and to the world that they are ready to take action and will accept nothing less than a negotiated two-state solution to the conflict.

Stick around for a special multicultural oneg, sponsored by the Social Action Committee.

If you would like to find out how to add your support to this wonderful organization, please contact Rayna Colton at rcolton@san.rr.com